

The image shows the front cover of a book. The cover is a deep navy blue and features a repeating, embossed geometric pattern of interlocking squares, similar to a Greek key or meander design. A thin, white, double-lined border is printed on the cover, starting from the top left, running horizontally, then turning vertically down the right side, and finally turning horizontally across the bottom. The word "GRADUATE" is printed in a large, white, serif typeface, centered within the rectangular area defined by the border. The text is all-caps and has a classic, slightly formal appearance. The overall design is minimalist and elegant.

Options are open to all whether it be academic scheduling, extracurricular activities, careers, friends, or life partners, the list is long and continuing. In this respect our lives seem to take on the aspect of a maze, for when we begin we do not know which path is best. We can only look as far and as best we can, and from the information at hand make what we hope is the best decision.

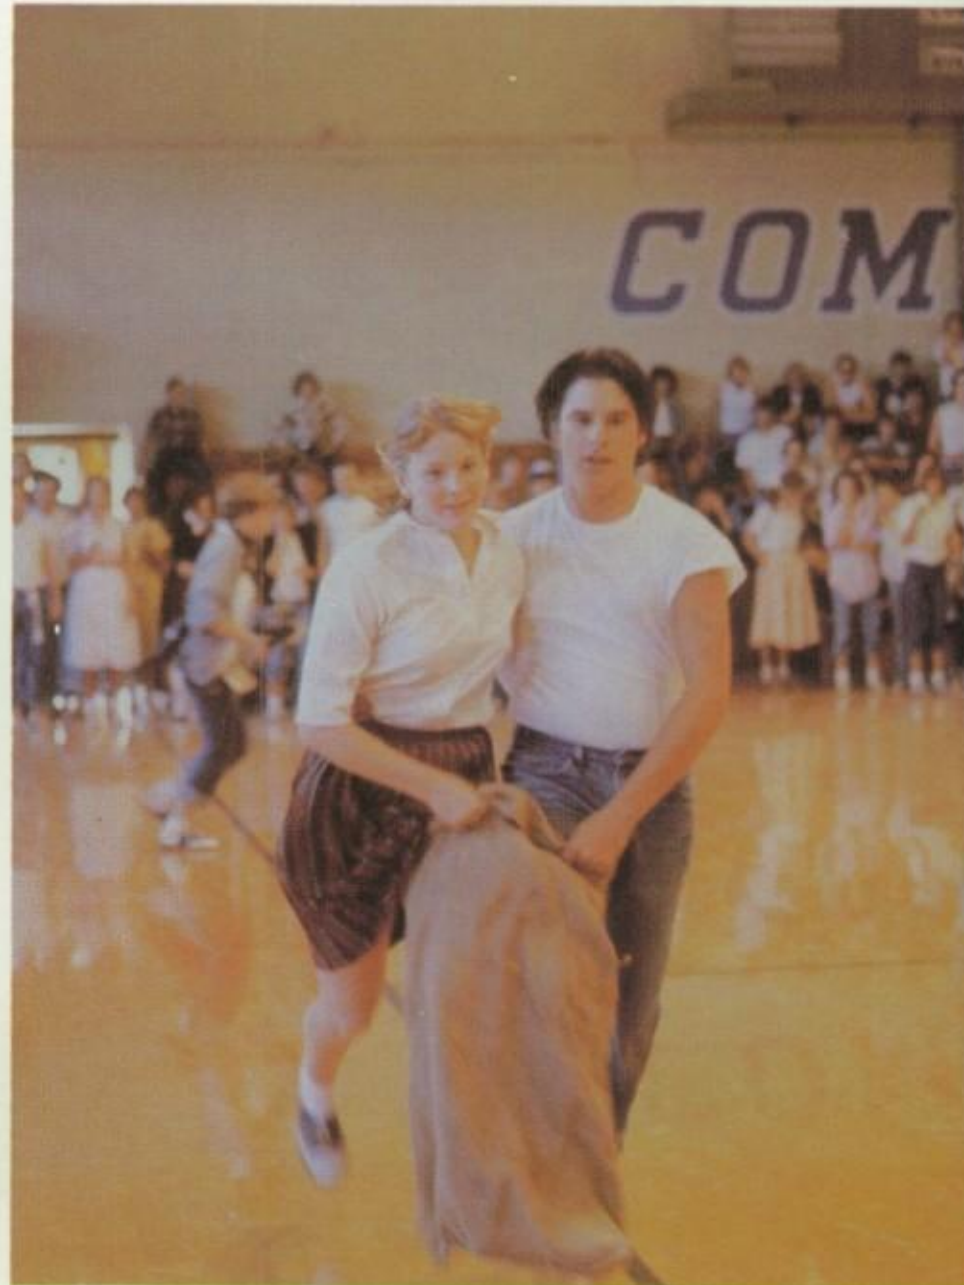

Many times as when tracing our path through a maze we must erase and begin anew. Also true in our lives we often find that our choices have not been as wise as we once believed or hoped they would be; and sometimes we also must stop and begin afresh.

Nevertheless, the options do not cease nor the decisions disappear.

From this concept comes the theme of the '80 Graduate as the paths are many and the choices divergent, the linework we use is to represent that of a maze with a beginning and end, and infinite options between.

Comet Victory Is Highlight of Homecoming Week

"Go Big Blue!" yelled Comet fans as they cheered on Varsity football players to a 17-0 victory over Litchfield; the first homecoming game won in 6 years. The game was the highlight of weeklong events which included: Monday — T-shirt and Hat day; Tuesday — Occupation day; Thursday — Blue and White day and Snake Dance; and Friday — Fifties day, Homecoming game, and Homecoming dance.

Fifteen Art Students Tour Italy During Easter 1979

During Easter vacation 1979, fifteen art students and chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. Washburn, traveled nine days in "a country that is a living art museum: Italy."

All events started with a flight from St. Louis to New York to Milan. The second day the group motored to Venice; and the third day, Palm Sunday, they attended services at St. Marks Square, and rode gondolas.

Famed statue of David, by Michaelangelo, was viewed in Florence. Enroute to Rome the Cathedral at Assisi was toured; while in Rome sites included the Colosseum, the Forum, and Trevi Fountain.

This motor boat, on the grand canal, bottom right, is most likely owned by several citizens. Although more convenient, it is not faster, for speed around the city is only fifteen knots.

Mike L. Washburn Is AFS Summer Exchange Student

1979 was a year of international travel for junior Mike L. Washburn. He first travelled to Italy with the art students in April, and then in June he left for Argentina, as an AFS (American Field Service) exchange student in a summer program.

His family consisted of his parents and five brothers, whose ages ranged from a year and a half to fifteen. They lived in Santiago del Estero, a city of 80,000 in northern Argentina.

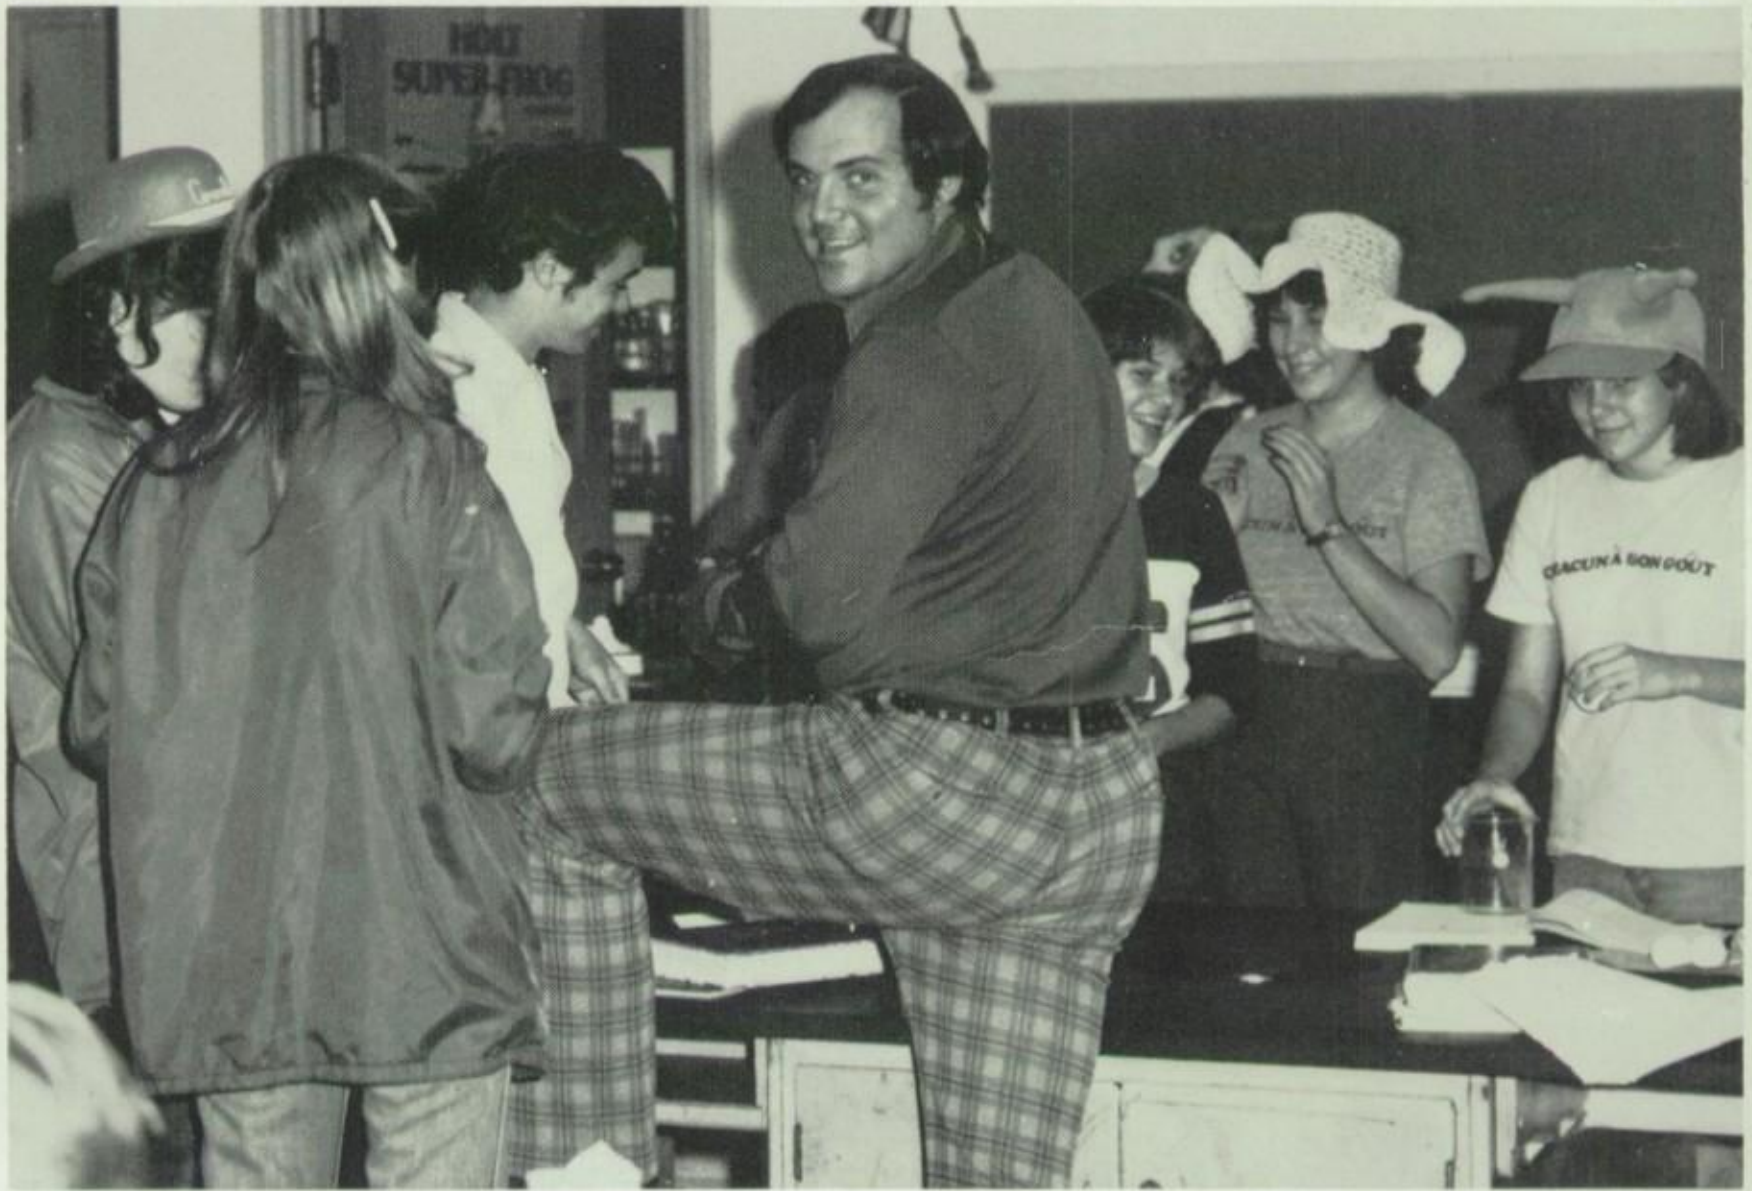

School was in session upon Mike's arrival (the seasons are reversed); however, this helped him to become involved in the local life quickly.

Mike especially enjoyed the tradition of the "asado" — an outdoor meal consisting of meat roasted over an open fire, a salad and beverage — savored in the relaxed atmosphere of a park or river bank.

Mike's return flight to the U.S. in September took him to Lima, Peru, Guayaquil, Ecuador, on the western side of South America, to avoid a major hurricane in the Caribbean.

Art Students Are Inspired by Italy

Inspired by their Italian trip last spring, art students Melody Dayka, Kevin Kaegy, Laura Harmon, and Beth Melton transformed their memories into drawings, paintings, and ceramic sculptures. Second semester began with the rapid pace of preparing musical props. Class efforts were put to making the paper mache headresses and masks for the "King and I."

Sitting outside the artroom door, Beth Melton, top, attempts to show perspective as she sketches the length of the hall.

Trade Teaching Program Begins

As a change in the shop department, Mr. Smith and Mr. Ranson, experimented with "trade teaching." Students from shop's Metal I classes, transferred to the Ag department to learn welding, while senior ag students learned woodworking in shop.

Sophomores and juniors witnessed the last Bond county acre to be examined by the soil survey committee on the Don Dalenberg Farm near Greenville.

Business Department Undergoes Change

Because of the retirement of Lucille Ireland, changes were made in the business department. Ron and Linda Grissom were named co-chairmen of the department, with Linda filling the vacancy left by Mrs. Ireland. Mrs. Grissom moved up to teach shorthand, secretarial, and clerical, also replacing Mrs.

Ireland in the classroom. Typing was highly enrolled with six sections, two of which were "early bird" classes. This surge in enrollment moved Mary Mae Anderson to the 7:20 a.m. hour to join Ron Grissom, the seasoned "early bird" instructor.

Mrs. Audrey Syrcle, new face in the department, was hired to teach consumer economics. The consumer economic classes continued in the same style in which Mrs. Ireland taught, with the students comparing different brand names of food products for taste and price. Guest speakers also came and spoke on subjects of real estate, housing, and insurance.

Consumer economic students, Brian Beaver, top, compares different brands of peanut butter by tasting; while Paul Hentze, center samples gelatin; and Mike Melton, Kenny Brown, and Teresa Merriman, bottom, taste, smell, and inspect grape jelly.

Frontier Literature Classes Dine at "The Spaghetti Factory"

After a day of visiting many interesting landmarks in St. Louis, such as the Museum of Westward Expansion, students in Frontier Literature class enjoyed an evening dinner at The Spaghetti Factory, a well known pasta house.

This was only one of many different activities that occurred in the English department. At all levels interesting activities such as writing individual headstones, visiting the local mortuary, acting out parts from plays, stories and novels, or performing plays for elementary school children were included.

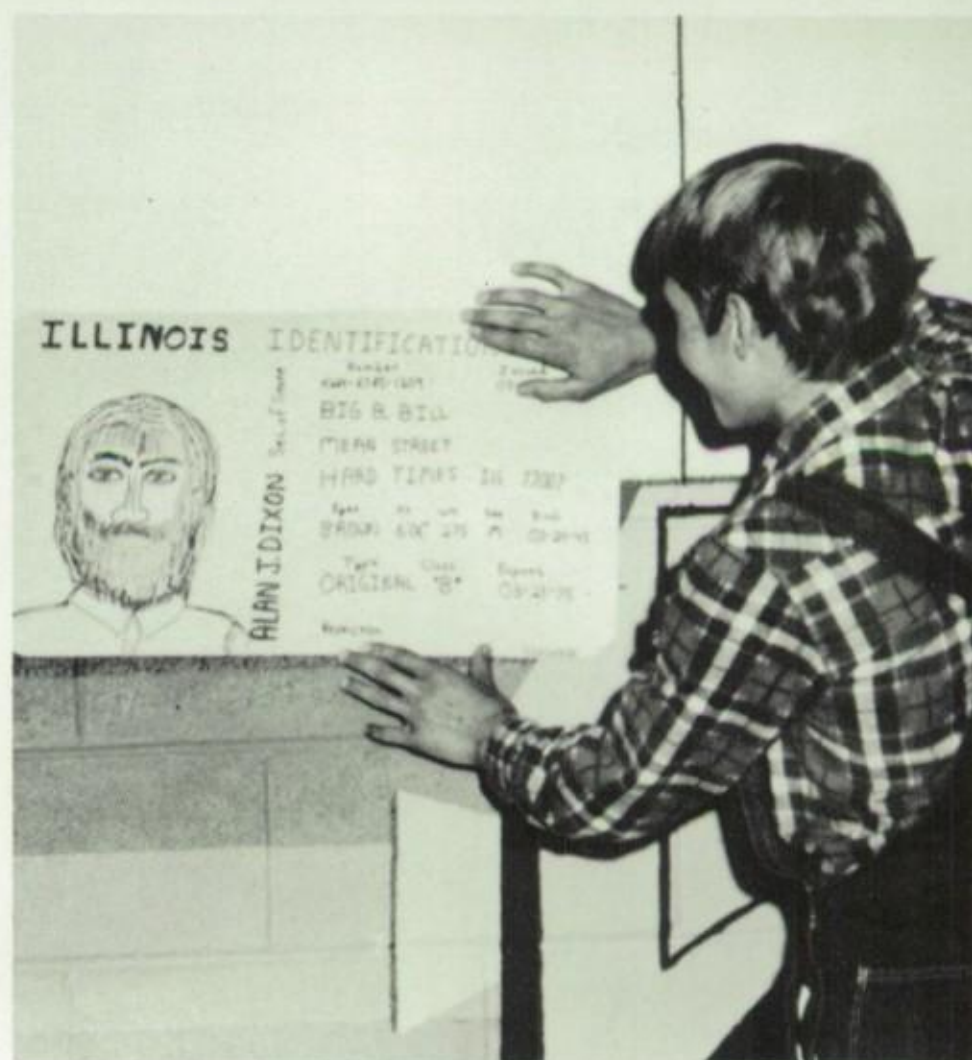

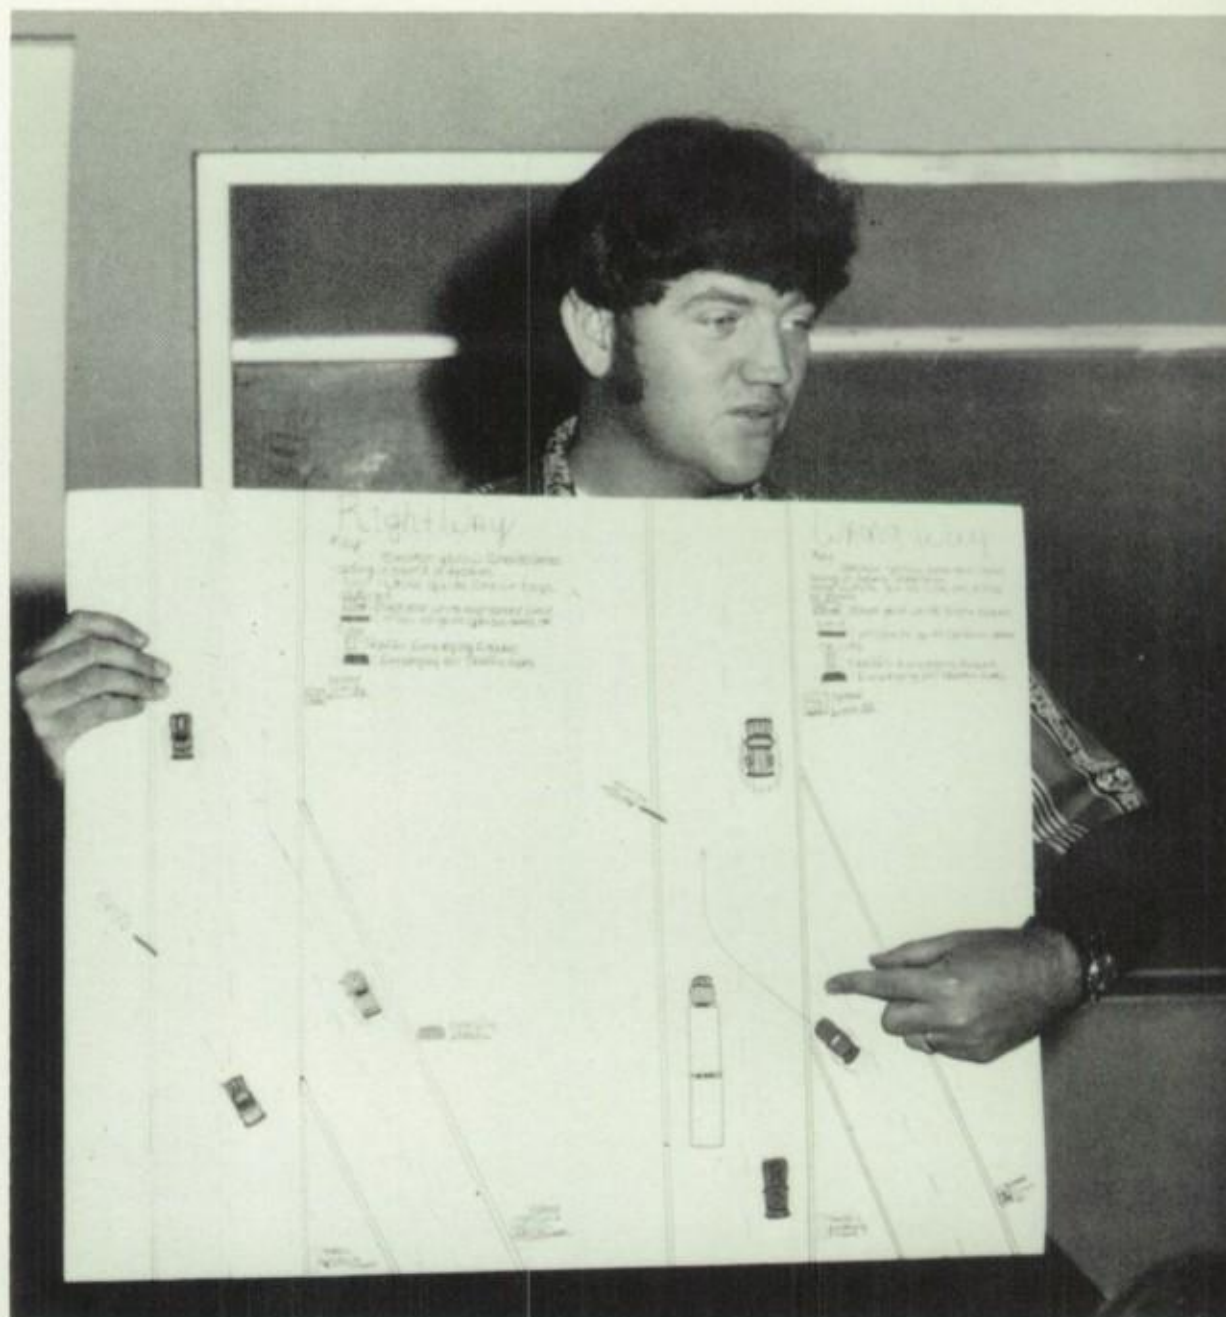

Bill Pine Is New Driver's Ed Teacher

Many changes were witnessed by the driver's education department. New cars were used, compliments of local dealers, Nobbie Schmitt and Wade Ford. Mr. Bill Pine, new teacher to the unit, replaced Mr. Gary Farnsworth, who moved to the health department. With Mr. Pine, new teacher ideas crept into the classroom phase as students made posters showing all phases of driver's education.

Using a poster, Mr. Bill Pine, top, shows both the correct and incorrect way to use interstate entrance ramps.

French Students Taste Perrier and Fondue in Class

Another year proved to bring changes to the French class. Many new materials such as posters, workbooks, films of well-known fairy tales, story books, and games were purchased. Class was also located in a different room, section D of the social studies complex.

Along with regular classroom work, students could order bumper stickers, pins, French T-shirts, and stationery. Class time was also spent tasting two French foods: perrier (naturally carbonated mineral water bottled straight from the spring of Perrier) and fondue.

French students (listed top to bottom) Jo Korte, Joanna Heikes, Kim Daisy, Karrie Weller, Jeff Zimpfer, and Renate Reeser show off their new French T-shirts, top right.

Mike Willmann anxiously awaits his turn to fondue dip, while Kelly Rench, bottom, opens wide for her first taste of French caramel fondue.

New Murals Liven Up Health Classroom

The health department underwent two major changes, the first of which concerned the instructor. Mr. Gary Farnsworth, although not new to the Unit, moved from the driver's education department to the health department, replacing Mr. Larry Kelly, who resigned at the end of the '79 school year. The second change was the mural on the east wall in the health classroom. The mural consisted of two diagrams, one of which depicted blood flow through the heart, while the other illustrated a pair of lungs. The mural, painted by the art department, not only brightened the room, but was used as a teaching diagram when these two organs were studied.

The east wall of the health room displays this diagram of the heart, top, painted in colors of pink and magenta; while slightly to the north, its counterpart, the lung, bottom, is painted in shades of purple and lavender.

Bake Shop Continues Under Direction of Carole Bohle

Bake shops were again successful, with the money received from sales being placed into a fund. The fund, to be used later, was designated for the purchase of equipment for the department, with a microwave oven as a possibility.

New addition to the department was Mrs. Florence Weiss, who was hired to teach half time, replacing Mrs. Linda Plett. Mrs. Weiss was responsible for the survival living class and intro to home economics.

An unexpected, but pleasant surprise was the arrival of three sets of twins in the child care class. The twins were children of Bob and Patty Knight, Terry and Gay Heard, and Bart and Delene Kunkel.

Twenty-One Students Attend Okaw Area Vocational Center

Students from twelve area schools, including twenty-one students from Greenville, were bussed daily to the Okaw Area Vocational center in Vandalia for training in building trades, electronics, machine shop, auto body, auto repair, and ag power mechanics. The program began eleven years ago and is still going strong today.

Math Department Purchases TRS-80

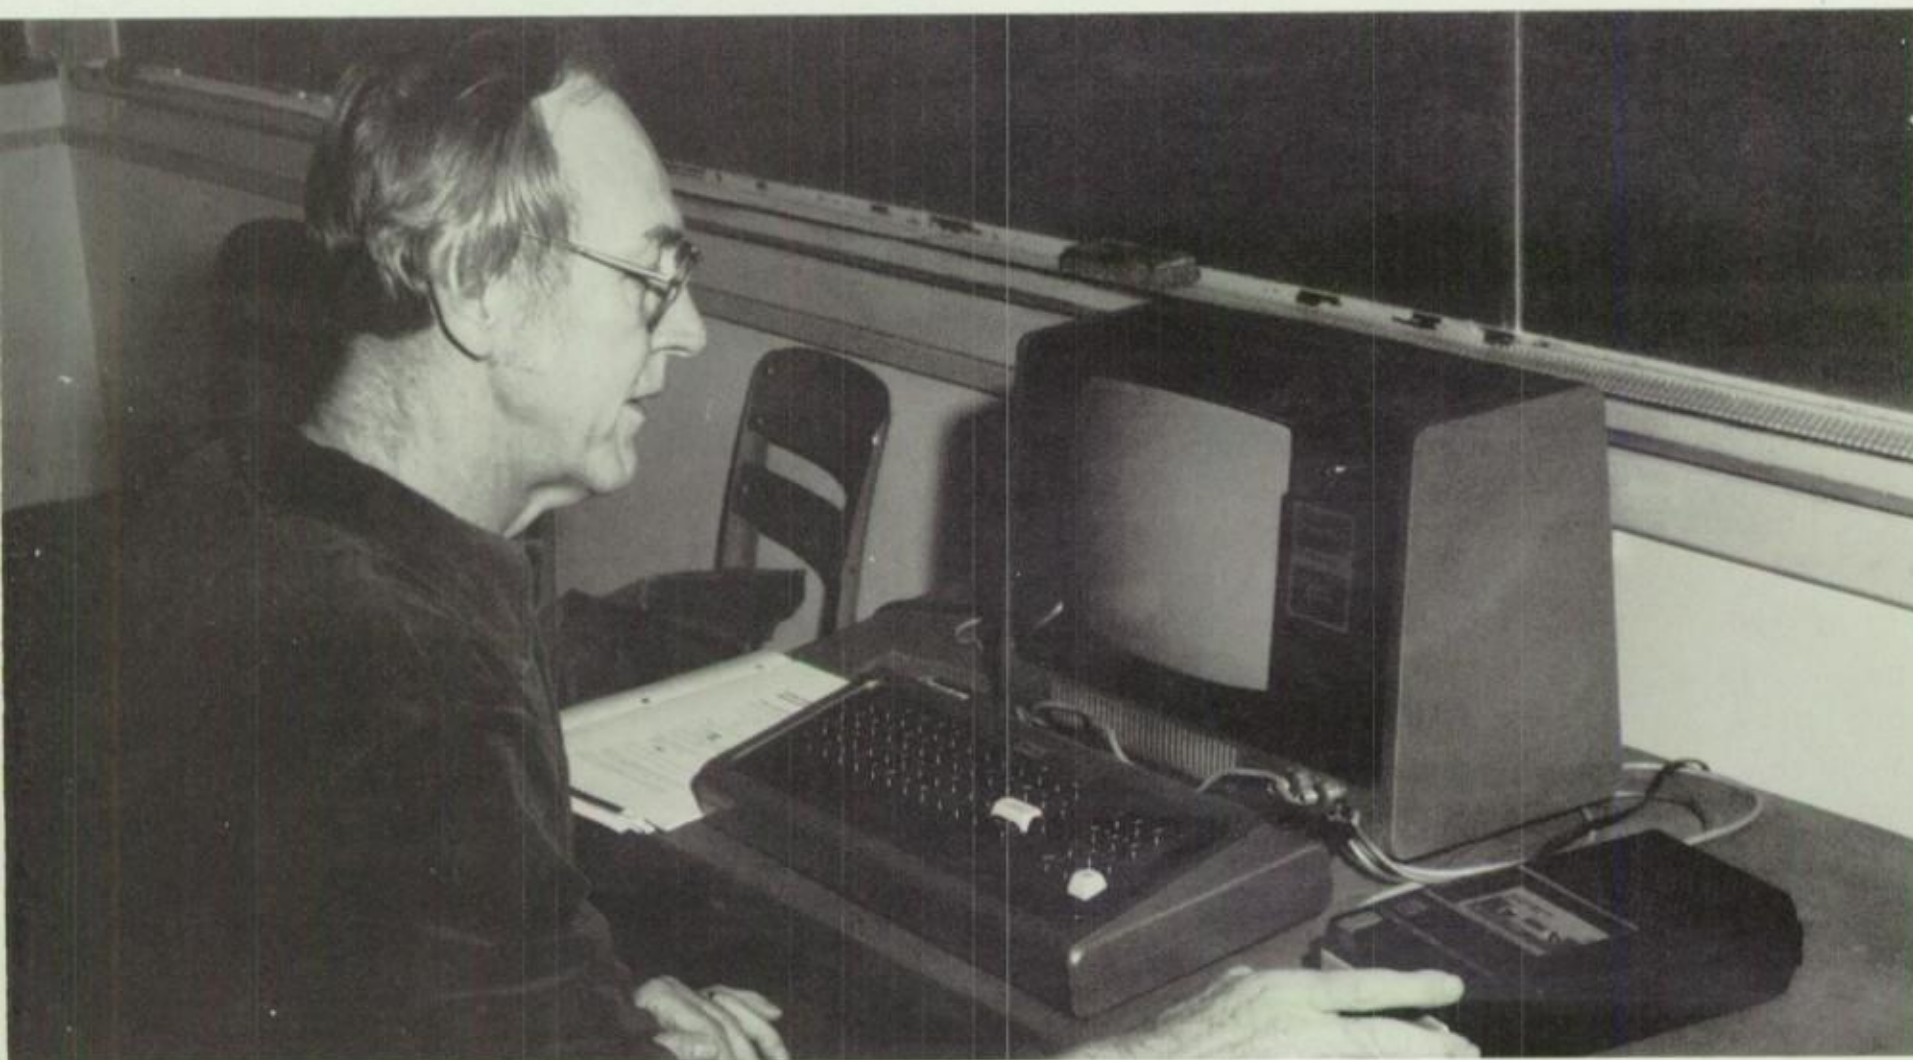

Radio Shack's TRS-80 mini-computer was purchased by the math department for use in the computer math class. Plans also included purchasing a line printer which will provide hard copy.

Miss Linda Ulmer joined the math department as a half time teacher in the afternoons. Her mornings were spent also teaching half time in Highland Junior High.

Eighth grade students had the opportunity to participate in an Algebra I class (in addition to their regular math class) with Mr. Moore as the instructor. Thus making it possible for eighth grade students who scored highly on standardized tests to enlarge their high school mathematics program and finalize with a full year of college calculus.

James Moore, bottom, computer math teacher, demonstrates how the new TRS-80 Radio Shack mini-computer works.

Students Prefer New Two Piece Gymsuits

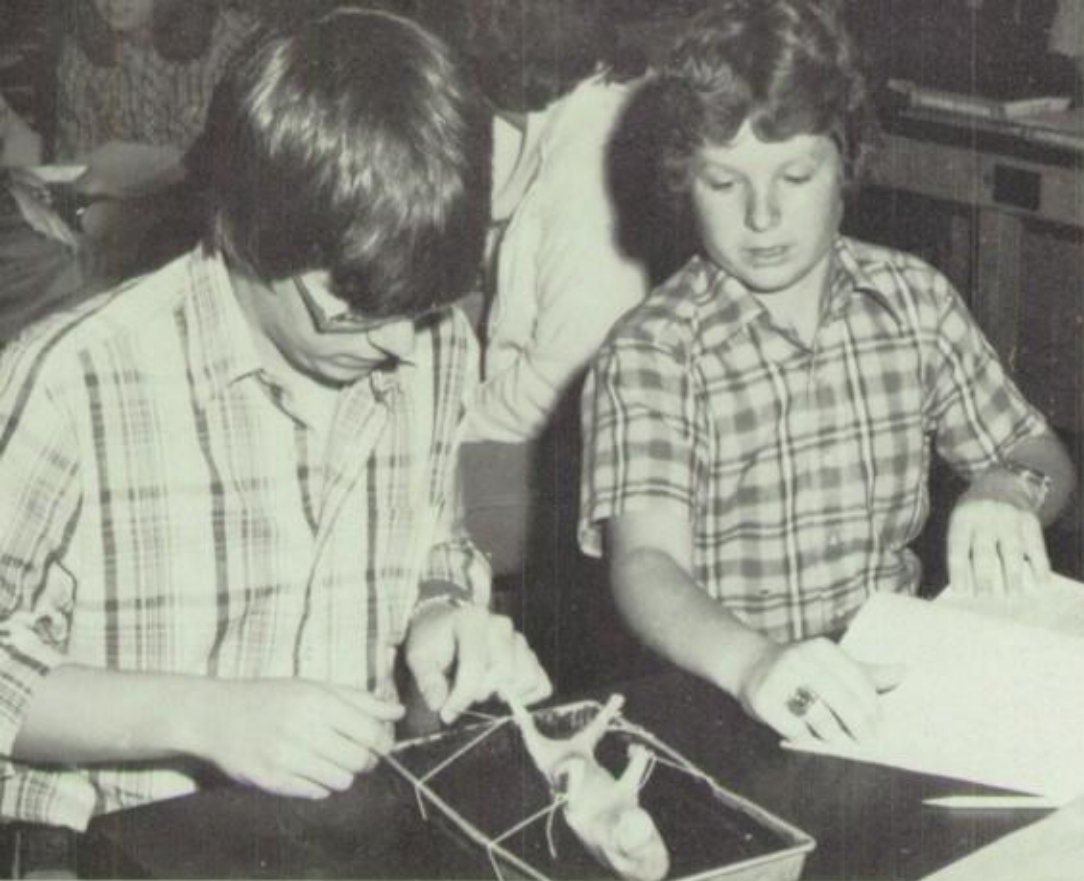

Matching gymsuits for boys and girls were a big hit in the Physical Education classes. Many girls thought that the two piece suits were a big improvement over the old one piece jumpsuit.

With the calm winter months, teachers were able to stay outside longer than usual. However, when bad weather did prevail, there was plenty of indoor activities. Co-ed hockey and volleyball were the high points during the snowy season.

Students Experiment With Solar Muscle

Solar muscle may not be the answer to the energy crisis, but it worked. One biology class experimented with a solar muscle and a solar tracker. The muscle would rotate when put into the sunlight, and the tracker would follow the sun as it moved across the sky.

Springfield Science Museum was the setting for a BSCS field trip; and a spring outdoor session was spent hiking on one of the nature trails constructed by YCC (Youth Conservation Corps).

Projects Add Realism to Geography

Under the direction of Mr. Fred Cole, geography students were assigned class projects. Students evidently were excited, as projects varied widely from scale models of historical buildings, to maps, to wood cutouts of various maps.

"Ace High Club," devised by American History teacher, Max Aten, again recognized students who achieved an "A" on the required Constitution test. Students who merited entrance into the "club" once again had their picture tacked to the classroom bulletin board.

Curt Bingham, Tom Kalous, Jeff Foehner, Kevin Jordahl, top, and Duane Ratermann, Rick Sussenbach, and Rick Zeisset, center, all visit the library to take a look at their geography projects which were on display.

Excitement builds as Steve Stone, Mike Stoecklin, and U.S. History teacher, Max Aten, bottom, roll dice to determine the world series APBA baseball game winner.

Students Enjoy Breakfast Prepared in Spanish Style

Students in the Spanish class had a taste of Latin disco when they listened to such favorites as "Que Profundo Ex Tu Amor" (How Deep is Your Love), "Soy Feliz" (Grease is the Word), and "Te Quiero Tal Como Eres Tu" (Swearing to God).

More new additions were the Spanish I texts, games (travel through Spain and Mastermind), and a filmstrip series on Mexico.

Also for the first time, in late April, a Mexican style breakfast was graciously prepared by the home economics classes.

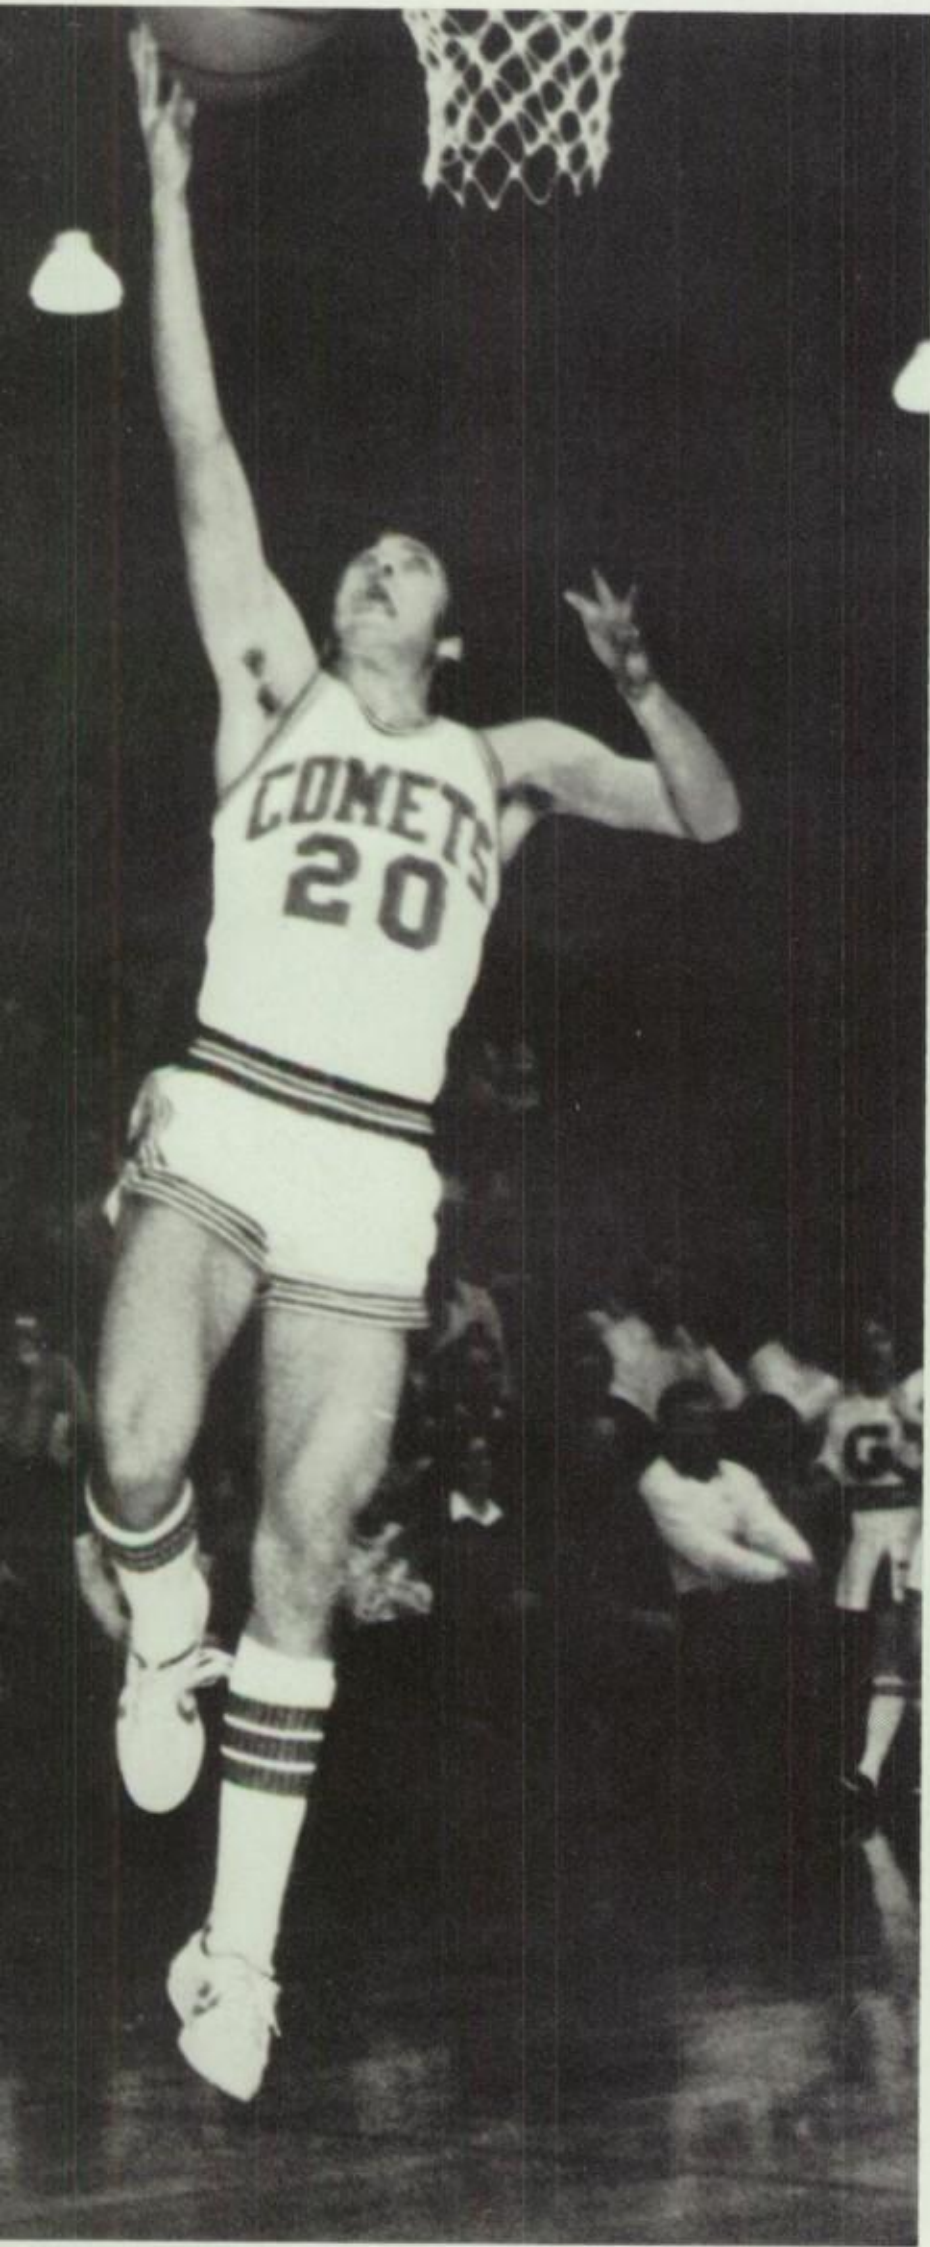

During homecoming T-shirt and hat day, Spanish teacher, Vickie Santanello, top, shows off her Spanish football "amigo."

First Lady Comets Travel to State

"We're Number One!" was the chant ringing through the gym at the celebration after the 35-32 victory over Bunker Hill for the Sectional Championships.

It had been a long hard journey for the team as they opened the season with three consecutive losses. This was the first year for the lady comets basketball team, thus to make it to Super-Sectionals was quite an accomplishment.

As the team began a six game winning streak, more and more enthusiasm was shown by the crowd with the appearance of the "Comet Chicken," a six foot tall chicken dressed in blue and white fur. He ran through break-throughs with the team and with the help of his pet rubber chicken, entertained the fans at half-time.

Comets Improve Under New Coach

Under the direction of new coach, Bill Pine, the Comets rally fell short as they lost their season opener by one point to Salem. However, fans did not have to wait long for a win as it came in their third game against Triad. Nevertheless, the winning streak did not last, for it was five games later when Comets hosted Shelbyville and were victorious, with Paul Hentze providing a spectacular performance with a total of thirty-nine points.

During the second half of the season the Comet's record did not improve, but their play did, as Comets lost squeakers to both Vandalia and Hillsboro. The third and final victory of the regular season came in February when Comet players trounced the Litchfield Panthers. Their winning streak did not hold out, for once again the Vandalia Vandals defeated the Comets, this time in overtime.

Greenville Comets hosted the Regional Tournament defeating Worden in the first game; and although they lost the second game they gave Lebanon a surprise battle.

JV Comets Provide Exciting Basketball as Freshmen Struggle

JV Comets provided fans with an exciting season, ending 15-4. According to Coach Farnsworth, the team blended together well, and the highlight of the season came with their victory over Effingham. However, the freshman team suffered many heartbreaking losses. Their play from the floor progressed during the season, but they continued to have trouble at the free throw line, making less than twenty percent of their shots.

Bats May Be Silent but Spirit Is Very Loud

It has been said that the "Greenville bats were often silent" with a 5-11 season. Changing pitchers often did not seem to help very much. However, team spirit was very much alive as evidenced during the many hard and often rainy games. But the downfall of the Comets appeared to be the problem they experienced with leaving men on base at the end of an inning.

Sugg, Tom Rainy, Paul Younker, Brian Reinhard, Tim Bolla, Manager Kevin Sybert.

Ferry Makes Fourth Trip to State

Senior, Lisa Ferry, teamed with junior, Val Morgan, qualified for the state tournament in Arlington Heights; thus making Ferry's fourth trip to state. They placed second in the district in the presence of new girls tennis coach, Herman Presley.

With the coaching experience of Mr. Presley, who is also Boys Tennis Coach, the tennis comets ended their season with a six win five loss record; and also placed second in the conference tournament scoring nine points to Effingham's ten points.

Kim O'Bryan, right, shows nice form in her serve as she begins the match against Triad.

Boys Tennis Comets Finish Season With Sparkling 12-1 Record

Tennis Comets once again had a very thrilling season. Fourth year lettermen, Tom Wise and James Sawyer, teamed up to place second in the District Tournament. This enabled them to compete in the state tournament which was held in Joliet, Ill. They won the first round of play, but were beaten in the second round.

Other lettermen, Rich Walton, Brian Gaffner, Rod Keillor, Vic DeLong, and Rob Bauer, displayed classic tennis skills to lead the Comets to an outstanding 12 wins, 1 loss record for the regular season play.

Trying to catch his breath after a hard relay sprint, Mike Melton, far right, leans against the fence for support.

At Decatur Area Best, Lisa Ferry, right, completes the spin for the discus, one of "her" specialty events that caused her to be named MVP (Most Valuable Participant in the meet).

On Mark . . . Set . . . Go! are words very familiar to Kim O'Bryan, below, as she prepares to run relay.

GIRLS' TRACK — Front Row: Coach Vickie Santanello, Jenny Whitlow, Jane Davidson, Karen Kester, Mary Brewer, Karen Ferguson, Renate Reeser. Second

venson, Val Morgan, Kathy Childerson, Marilyn Bartlett, Kim O'Bryan, Jalyn Sales.

Relay Teams Attend State

Each of the coaches had new assistants — Mike O'Boyle was assisted by Bill Pine while Vickie Santanello's assistant was Linda Ulmer.

Both track teams were successful, the proof being that girls' and boys' relay teams attended State. Once there, the girls' team tied for sixth, and the boys' team won first.

Also a first, the Boys' Conference track meet was held at Greenville, where eight schools participated.

After putting all she has into a track meet, Val Morgan, top, regains her strength on the ride home.

Lucille Ireland Says "Farewell" After 15 All-American Yearbooks

Mrs. Lucille Ireland served twenty years as faculty advisor for the Graduate. During that era the Graduate was awarded the All-American title consecutively from 1961-1970, and also 1972, 1973, and 1976-1978. In addition, the Graduate was an annual recipient of the Golden Dozen award since its inception in 1972.

The long awaited Sneak Preview was held November 17 at Southwestern Electric's hospitality room. Many of Mrs. Ireland's past editors were invited, and eleven accepted the invitation while others wrote or called.

Editors seated at the head table were Mime Sandifer (1964-1965), Carol McMurrin (1964), Janet Neuman (1965), Donna Burden (1966), Don Kaufmann (1972), Deanna Schaufelberger (1972-1973), Gary Kaufmann (1974), Beth Haberer (1975) and Sarah Bowen (1977-1978). Each editor received a red carnation when introduced by Mrs. Ireland.

As past editors were introduced, each spoke briefly, agreeing that organization, planning, leadership, and responsibility were qualities developed by the time and dedication spent on staff.

In tribute, all present gave Mrs. Ireland a standing ovation for her years of dedication with the Graduate. Assuming the responsibilities created by Mrs. Ireland's retirement, Mrs. Deanna Reeves acknowledges the challenge and dedication necessary to continue the quality yearbooking which Mrs. Ireland built and established.

La Hacienda Is Site for AFS Dinner

AFS bike-a-thon in September started a whirl of AFS activities. JoAnn Jenner hosted a Halloween party which was a new experience for exchange student, Sven Gempper. This was followed by a trip to "La Hacienda" in St. Louis, where members enjoyed burritos, tamales, and other Mexican foods.

December caught AFS members in the midst of a profitable bake sale totaling nearly $250.00. During the May meeting Sven Gempper showed his slides of Germany. Those attending enjoyed a huge sheet cake and received tinted blue teeth from the cake which was decorated with a blue AFS log.

National Library Week Keeps Library Club Busy

Library Club was active with two bowling parties followed by pizza suppers, National Library week festivities, and trip to Chicago.

The Chicago trip, shared with art students, began at 5:30 a.m. and ended near 11:30 p.m. Tours of the Field Museum of Natural History, the Art Institute of Chicago, and shopping at the Water Tower Place Mall were included.

National Library week featured free book marks and pencils for students, pens for teachers, and climaxed with a free book drawing.

Librarians, Tom Melosi, Connie Brave, Curt Bingham, and Sheila Blissenbach, right, prepare a box for the free book drawing during National Library week.

Hayride Is Success

FTA activities were on the rise with a hayride that drew forty participants, and the annual teachers tea.

Homeroom meetings featured guest speaker Marla Wade with facts about teaching EMH children; and cadette teachers, Gianetta Wright, Mary VonBurg, and Arline Beatty with their teaching experiences at the elementary school.

French club's fall hayride was well attended, but had an anticlimax when one wagon broke down. Roller skating and the Christmas party kept members busy throughout the winter.

In May, members visited the Magic Pan where they dined on chicken or seafood crepes, after which students shopped at Northwest Plaza.

Caramel Apples Are Big Treat at Party

Spanish club's Halloween party featured a caramel apple eating contest as one of the main attractions. While contestants frantically ate their apples in an attempt to be declared winner, Jim Kuhn and Tom Melosi suddenly realized that their "caramel apples" were really "caramel onions."

Later in the year, Spanish and French club members joined for a skating party in Granite City, and a volleyball game in the gym.

During the Christmas party, Shelly Stevenson and exchange student, Federico Londono, top, are partners in the lifesaver pass.

Carol (Janet McCracken), top, shocks her fiancé (Tom Wise) and her mother (Betsy Palmer) with the news that she does not want to get married.

Struggling to gain a foothold in show business, some young hopefuls found refuge at Lulu Haddock's boarding house just off Broadway. Boarders included Dink Davis, a would-be magician waiting for his big chance; Smiley Burk, an unappreciated comic; Bea Gladd, a dramatic actress who was type-cast as a dialect comedienne; Patsy Short, a former dancer who is temporarily in business; and Eloise Pringle, a small town beauty queen looking for her big break.

Lulu, who loved money, nagged her daughter, Carol, to shower her affections on their rich boarder, Archibald Baxter. To save herself from betrothal to the eccentric inventor, Carol sent letters to an imaginary lover, Ensign Tony Jones. When the scheme backfired and a man by that name came to marry her, Carol was bewildered and her mother was delighted. Jones turned out to be a treasury agent, undercover, who revealed that the wealthy Mr. Baxter was a counterfeiter.

As a comedy team Smiley (Bob Bowen), top, finds it is no laughing matter that Eloise is too dumb to deliver a punch line.

Treasury agent (Tom Wise), bottom right, returns to explain the arrest of Archibald Baxter to Lulu (Betsy Palmer), Patsy (Joanna Heikes), Dink (David Bogue); and to propose to Carol.

"She is a present?" asks Anna (Judi Rose) as the King (Rick Morgan) introduces her to Tuptim (Renate Reeser, Saturday), opposite page top.

"The King and I" Is Repeat Performance of 1970 Musical

"The King and I," presented on March 21 and 22 by a cast of 65 was well advertised, resulting in near sell-out performances for both nights. Lee Patterson served as assistant director, while Mr. Howard Kinney directed and accompanied on the piano. Mrs. Joyce Washburn, set designer, and her co-designers, Jeff Zimpfer and Melody Dayka, gave many hours of hard work after school and on weekends.

In the story, Anna Leonowens and her small son, Louis, arrived by boat to Bangkok, Siam, where she expected to teach the King's children. When she arrived there was a misunderstanding as to whether Anna was to live in the Palace or in a house adjoining the Palace.

Soon after Anna's arrival she began her teaching of the King's children and his wives. She was very pleased with their achievements.

"To Prove We're Not Barbarians, They Dress Us Up Like Savages" sings Lady Thiang (Denice Sheriff, arrival of Sir Edward Ramsay.

Cowering with fear, Tuptim (Kim

"We Kiss in the Shadows" sings
LunTha (Larry Walton) and Tuptim (Renate Reeser, Saturday), as they realize this may be their last meeting before he returns to Burma.
Sir Edward Ramsay (Rob Bauer), bottom, arrives in Siam and renews his acquaintance with Anna (Judi Rose, Saturday) by reminding her that he had once asked her to marry him.

Anna also became involved with the secret love affair between Tuptim, the slave girl sent from Burma, and LunTha, emissary from Burma.

As the King continued to ignore his promise to provide Anna with her own house she became angry and expressed her feeling in the Monologue "Shall I Tell You What I Think of You?" Lady Thiang then pointed out the King's finer qualities and persuaded Anna to go speak to the King who had just received a letter from the British in which they called him a Barbarian. Anna went to the King and together they decided to entertain the British with a Royal Reception to prove to the British that the King was not a Barbarian.

The second act opened with the wives, Anna, and the King all hurrying to get ready for the arrival of Sir Edward Ramsay. At the reception Tuptim presented her version of the play "Uncle Tom's Cabin," after which Tuptim disappeared.

To ease the tension caused by Tuptim's disappearance, Anna (Johnna Anthony) and the King (Tom Wise, Friday), top, polka to "Shall We Dance."

Gathering wives and children together the King (Rick Morgan) asks Buddha for strength and wisdom and finally promises Anna (Judi Rose, Saturday), bottom, the brick residence that was part of their agreement.

The King was angered by the disappearance of Tuptim, but Anna taught him to dance the polka, relieving his anger. Soon Tuptim was found trying to escape with LunTha, and the King was again enraged, demanding that she be punished; but Anna protected Tuptim from the whiplash of the King.

Anna prepared to leave Siam because she could not understand the King's behavior; but the grave illness of the King and the pleadings of the wives and children caused

Anna to stay.

As all gathered in the King's bedroom he commanded Prince Chululongkorn to assume command of the Kingdom of Siam. As the Prince took his position the King died in silence with Anna at his side.

"Run Eliza Run," warns Tuptim (Renate Reeser, Saturday), opposite page top, in her version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," the ballet presented to Sir Edward Ramsay, and the visiting British.

"Dear Old Uncle Thomas" (Emily Pennington), King Simon of Legree (Teresa Knight), and Mischief-Maker Topsy (Kelly Holleman) opposite page bottom, appear as they are introduced in the ballet.

Eliza has been saved but Buddha has asked Little Eva (Kelly Rench), this page center right, to come thank him personally, meaning she must die.

Make-up crew Rhonda Smith and Mrs. Pat Young, this page bottom, add the finishing touch to Jane Zimpfer and Janet McCracken, members of the dancing chorus.

Chorus Grows and Swing Choir Continues Community Appeal

Chorus has continued to grow, once again creating a shortage of robes. The Christmas concert featured a cantata, rather than a mere selection of songs.

Swing choir, made up of chorus members who chose to audition, received a first rating at music contest held in Gillespie. Other performances included the teachers institute, chili supper, and retired teachers banquet.

In early spring, swing choir members, top, perform at the Southwestern Electric Hospitality room for the retired teachers.

One and Two and Ready . . . Play!

Hours of practice under the warm September sun were necessary to prepare for the many football shows the band performed during the season. A "tradition," the October parade at Carbondale, was again attended by the Marching Comets. However, Director, Mr. Howard Kinney decided not to return to the parade at Centralia. The Christmas concert was well attended and the concert band performed many difficult numbers.

Fountain and Pool Add Elegance to Tequila Sunrise Prom Theme

beneath gym decorations of blue, aqua, and lavender streamers stood a real running water fountain surrounded by live plants. The royal platform represented an outdoor garden on which Patty Busby and Wally Lauchner were crowned queen and king, having been selected from eighteen senior candidates by vote of the student body. Selected as Miss Congeniality by a vote of the candidates was Cari Chappel.

Family Banquet Is Major Highlight of Home Ec Club

Mother-Father-Daughter Banquet did not yield as big a turnout as expected, but the fun was still there. Games ranged from a pudding stuff to a "Newlywed" game.

Thirty-five Inducted Into National Honor Society

President Wally Lauchner presided over a special ceremony April 15, inducting thirty-five new members into the National Honor Society. The pledge was recited by new members, then pins and membership cards were presented.

Students who desired to become members had to meet the following requirements: must hold a 'B' average, must have held one leadership office, must have been involved in two or more school activities, must have displayed good conduct. In addition, candidates were screened by a four member faculty committee.

Board Gives Tentative Approval for Trip

Sophomore class officers brought the idea of an overnight senior trip to the Board during the March meeting, but the final decision was delayed until May. The Board approved the trip with the following stipulations: (1) proper funds must be raised, and (2) a sufficient number of chaperones must accompany the trip. After the class decides upon a final destination, the Board must again approve the trip.

Guidance Office Has Different Location

Winds of change swept through the guidance department. The retirement of Mr. Kelly Ireland caused a shortage of guidance personnel. As a result Mr. Howard Kinney, who holds a counseling degree, was asked to counsel band students; and Mr. Bill Wells assumed the duties of counseling freshmen and sophomores.

Another difference was the location of the guidance office. Instead of being west of the main office, they moved back to the original site, just east of the main office, which was formerly the teacher workroom and yearbook workroom.

Lewis and Clark System Provides More Variety

Wide variations of topics would never have been handled by the library resource books themselves. That was why Mrs. Barbara Shankland was thankful for the Lewis and Clark System, for through it they were able to get resource materials for teachers and students alike.

Library week was celebrated by a free drawing of books. Mike Melton received first prize, and Richard White was the second prize winner.

Many students have provided themes for the library bulletin boards, with themes ranging from J. R. Tolkien's Hobbit to a Christmas theme.

Freshmen Sell $2715 in Magazine Drive

With freshman enrollment up to 169 from the previous 162, the freshman class represented 24.5% of the total enrollment; however, the freshmen accounted for only 17.2% of sales in the magazine drive. Leading salesman for the class of 1984 was Nan Willmann who placed seventh in the individual sales. Dave Zahniser and Richard Gruner also placed in the top twenty salesmen, 18th and 20th respectively.

Sophomore Officers Seek Approval for Senior Trip

Where there was activity there were surely sophomores, for the finale of Homecoming week featured 160 jubilant sophomores cheering their team to a third place finish.

Class officers were also busy organizing student surveys and submitting reports to Board members in an attempt to gain approval for an overnight senior trip in 1982. However, no decision was reached by the Board.

Juniors Choose "Tequila Sunrise"

"Tequila Sunrise" surfaced as the winning prom theme over other choices "Southern Nights" and "You Light Up My Life."

Coronation, refreshment, table decoration, and decorating committees were started in January to provide sufficient time for planning.

For the third consecutive year Randy Alderman placed in the top twenty magazine salesmen. Randy placed second while Rhonda Hoffmann placed fifth. In all, the Junior class accounted for 23.9% with $3,769.96 total sales.

Bus Breaks Down On Senior Trip

Friday, May 9, three busses were boarded for senior trip. Once in St.

Louis, the morning was spent touring the Zoo or riverfront.

The trip was not uneventful, for before lunch students discovered that one bus was broken. As a result seniors waited at the Heritage House (where they enjoyed a buffet lunch) for assistant Superintendent, James Kesner, to deliver a replacement bus.

Holiday Inn Collinsville was the setting for the evening banquet and dance.

Senior class officers are Jill Willman, secretary-treasurer; Patty Busby, vice-president; and Melba Cruthis, president.

If we have so much coal, who needs nuclear energy?

WE DO.

Even in coal-rich Illinois, it costs more per kilowatt-hour to generate electricity from coal-fired power plants than it does from nuclear fueled plants.

WHY? One reason is that the cost of all fossil fuels—coal, petroleum and natural gas—has risen sharply because of short supplies, problems getting it out of the ground, high transportation costs, environmental laws and regulations.

The cost of nuclear fuel is lower than fossil fuels for several reasons. One pound of uranium the size of a golf ball has about the same potential energy as nearly three million pounds of coal—about 25 railroad cars full. Because of continuing improvements in technology, future nuclear plants will tend to have even higher reliability with lower operating costs.

The Electric Cooperatives of Illinois cannot promise that electric energy will cost less in the future. Due to inflation, all energy will probably cost more. But nuclear energy, as one part of a balanced energy production system which uses all our energy resources—coal, water, wind, solar—can help minimize future electric energy costs for electric consumers.

Acknowledgements

Bob Thoman Photography of Vandalia was indispensable for his ever-readiness on a moment's call to take senior portraits, or group or activity pictures.

Allan Davis, self-appointed photo-advisor, was irreplaceable for his gusto in covering the event, teaching use of the camera, and spending endless hours in the darkroom.

The Greenville Advocate picture box was a great asset for extra sport and activity pictures.

Mrs. Joyce Washburn and Jeff Zimpfer were essential as they willingly extended their photographic services for the Italy, Summer Exchange, and Homecoming color pages.

Representative Charles Sisk of Taylor Publishing Company, merits many thanks for his willingness to juggle his schedule and come to check quad packs and proofs at our every request.

Last but not least, Karla Adcock and Kevin Kaegy deserve medals of honor for the cheerful manner in which they finished incomplete pages for four endless weeks in June.

When we began this year we made decisions of one kind or another. Now as we look back we can evaluate our decision making technique; however, we cannot go back and change our lives.

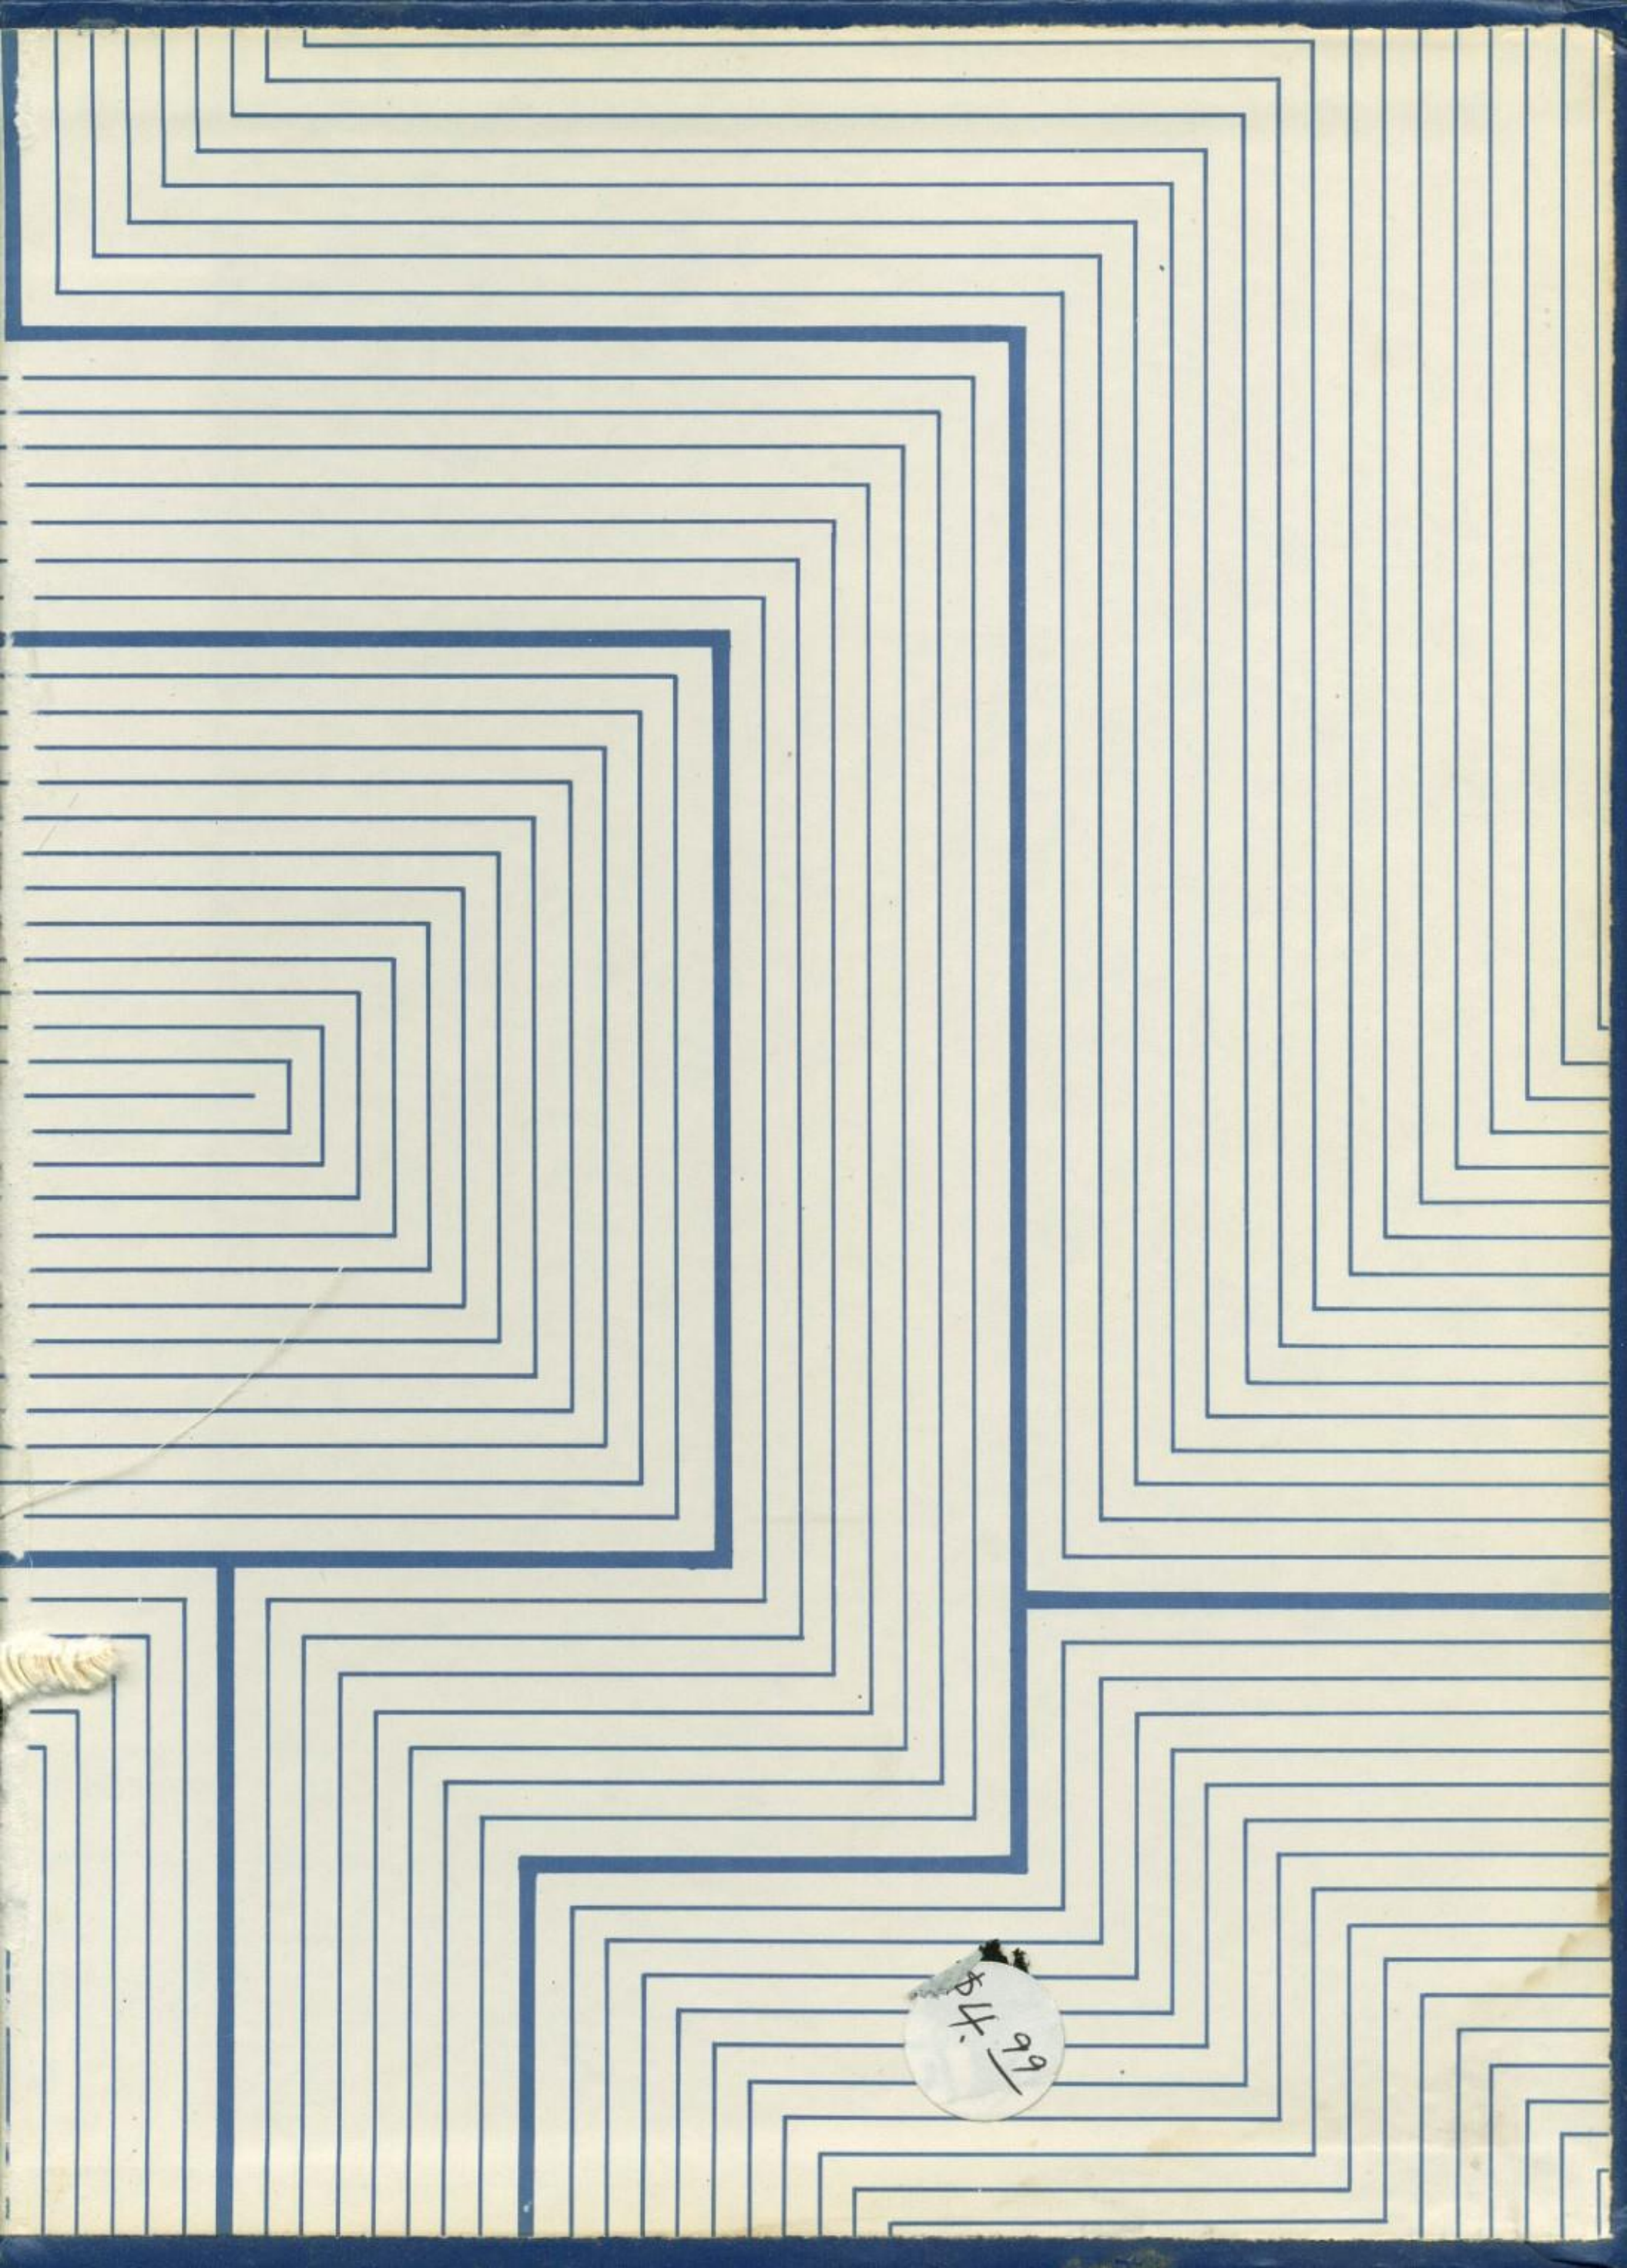

Rather it is through our mistakes and our successes that we hope we can shape our future to the best of our ability.

This book has come to an end, but life continues, and therefore, the maze of decision making continues.

We can only ask of ourselves that in the moment of indecision that we weigh each choice carefully and decide to the best of our ability.
